

THE UNF DIGITAL HUMANITIES
INSTITUTE PRESENTS

Anthropology and History beyond the Academy

November 19, 2021
Noon-1 p.m.

The first in a roundtable series on the importance of public scholarship focuses on anthropological and historical research and its relevancy within national parks and historic sites.

Moderator/Discussant

Justin Sipes, assistant director, Center for Community-Based Learning

Indigenous Northeast Florida

Denise Bossy, associate professor of history

Keith Ashley, assistant professor of anthropology

National Historic Sites and Parks

Kaley Crawford, park guide at Reconstruction Era National Park and Charles Pinckney National Historical Site, and UNF alumna in anthropology and history

The fall 2021 roundtable will be a culminating event of the DHI's Digital Projects Showcase, held virtually the week of November 15.

Questions, comments, or ideas for future roundtables?

Please contact Anne Pfister,
DHI Director at a.pfister@unf.edu

Register Here

